

PERSECUTED AND INSULTED

St. Bernard Coal Company Officials Arrested at Tradewater Mines.

FOLLOWED BY A HOWLING MOB

In Sturgis—Their Lives Were Threatened.

Two Earlington gentlemen, Mr. B. W. Robinson, manager, and Mr. Frank B. Arnold, bookkeeper of the St. Bernard Coal Company, went to Sturgis in Union county, Monday, to purchase an engine for the St. Bernard mines.

In company with President Frankel, of the Tradewater Company, they went to the mines to inspect the engine. While examining it they were approached by a crowd of union miners, headed by an officer, who had warrants for both men and arrested and searched them. On the person of Manager Robinson a revolver was found, Mr. Arnold having nothing more dangerous than an ordinary pocket knife.

It is needless to say that Messrs. Arnold and Robinson were dumfounded and astonished at the action of the officer.

President Frankel saw this was a ruse of the union miners and that they were in an ugly mood, and did all he could to quiet them.

Messrs. Robinson and Arnold told the officer they could give bond, and were carried before a magistrate, who fixed the bond at $200, which they readily gave, with President Frankel and William Vanosen, both of the Tradewater Company, as security. After they were released, however, they were followed around the town by a hooting, jeering mob and grossly insulted and threatened.

Neither of the two gentlemen knew what charge the warrant embodied, as it simply read "misdemeanor."

The mob of blood-thirsty hoodlums followed them to the train and again offered violence and threatened them as the train pulled out. Matters were serious several times during their short stay, and a word or blow would have caused trouble.

That this disgraceful state of affairs is allowed to exist in an enlightened community is an eternal disgrace to Union county. That two men, who we all know to be quiet, peaceable, unassuming gentlemen can't go in an adjoining county on a three hours business trip, without being grossly insulted and their lives jeopardized, is a piece of gross injustice and shows a mean spirit of revenge.

If the U. M. W. continues to flourish in Union county, it will soon be necessary for the citizens of Hopkins and other counties to secure a passport from the midnight assassins before crossing the county line. We wish to impress on the minds of that respectable mob, who uselessly insulted our friends, that every good citizen of Hopkins county condemns the outrage, and the citizens of Earlington are exceedingly bitter in their denunciations of the men who mistreated two of her best citizens.

Striking to Monopolize Labor.

(From The New York Evening Post.)

Whatever doubts there may have been about the real issue in the steel strike, they are all swept away by President Shaffer's strike order, which the Evening Post was able to announce last evening in advance of the contemporaries. The aim of the Amalgamated Association is now perfectly clear. It would monopolize the labor of the iron and steel industry of this country. On the one hand, it would turn to non-union workers, and say to them, "You shall have no employment without an Amalgamated card." On the other, it would face the employers and say to them, "You shall hire no man not approved by us." Say what you will of the Steel Corporation—call it a threatening combination and a hateful monopoly; it is not so dangerous as this one which the steel-workers' union is trying to make strong and tyrannous.

"We don't want to quarrel with you, but we know how to manage the mills better than the masters do, and we mean to do it." So said the English labor leader to Mr. J. M. Maclean, late member of Parliament for Oldham and Cardiff. It was a labor constituency, and he eventually lost his seat for refusing to vote in the Commons as the trades unions dictated. Secretly congratulated by a Radical for his courage, Mr. Maclean said that he had only ventured to maintain in the Commons that even property still had some rights in Great Britain. "Ah," rejoined the Radical, "that is a thing you may think, but you mustn't say it in these days." In these two quotations lies the kernel of the whole controversy between the Steel Corporation and the Amalgamated Association. The men mean to take the management of the mills out of the hands of the owners. That is what Mr. Shaffer has in mind when he declares that the strike is due to the refusal to "recognize as union men those who are now striving for the right to organize." If they are not yet organized, they cannot be union men—but let that pass. The position of the directors of the Steel Corporation is that they must protect a vast capital, and that they might as well shut up their mills and let their securities become unseizable as to place their property at the mercy of either labor leaders or politicians.

There has been much public wonder over the bringing on of this gigantic struggle when the points of difference appeared so trivial. On its face, the dispute was simply whether three or four mills, out of scores, should be unionized or not. Why should a great labor union be ready to run such frightful risks for so slight a gain? Why, on the other hand, should a huge corporation, with immensely extended and highly vulnerable interests, make a stand on so minor a matter? You might as well ask why a General should bring on a bloody battle and imperil his whole army, merely to hold an insignificant hill. If the hill is the key to the position, if it is a Little Round Top or an Arapah Grande, and its occupation by the enemy would mean destruction to Meade or Wellington, he is justified in fighting for its possession with his last man and gun. The public may have been mystified but the Amalgamated officials have not been. They knew what they were working for. And the officers of the Steel Corporation were shrewd enough to perceive it. To unionize a few more mills meant a determination ultimately to unionize all mills; and if there was to be a fight at all against the encroaching tyranny over free labor and free capital, it had better be made at once, before the Malakoff of the defenses had been carried or weakly surrendered.

One thing should be perfectly understood. It was the Amalgamated Association that took the aggressive. It is easy to accuse Messrs. Morgan and Schwab of being "labor crushers" and union haters, but no evidence to support that charge appears in the record. The Steel Corporation made distinct concessions. It went further than some of its own directors thought wise or safe. Remember, it was not a question of continuing last year's status as regards union and non-union mills. A change was demanded, and it was not by the Corporation, but by the Association. There was no proposal to transfer a mill from the union to the non-union list. The Association could allege no such aggressive action against it. Indeed, it would be to suppose Mr. Morgan and his associates mad or drunk if they could be thought capable, in the present situation of the Steel Corporation, of needlessly provoking a quarrel with the labor union. It was by the other side that the arrogant demands were made. One of them was for the unionizing of the W. Dewees Wood mill at McKeesport. There the Amalgamated Association had made itself so intolerable to the proprietors that they had fought themselves clear of it, and their mill was publicly recognized, at the last signing of the scale, as non-union. But Shaffer insisted that it now be ranked as union again, and this without any evidence that the employees wished to join the union. What the Amalgamated officials desire is power to coerce them and all other steel-workers, and gradually to work into a position where they will have a complete monopoly of the labor of one of the greatest and most vital industries of the country.

When such a sharp challenge is put forth, men who believe in personal liberty, in freedom both for laborer and employer, in the maintenance of a government under which there shall still be preserved individual initiative and free competition of muscle and talent, cannot hesitate where to take their stand. It is now useless to discuss side issues and minor matters. Perhaps this attitude of the labor union should have been more clearly foreseen by the Steel Corporation. Perhaps sufficient allowance was not made for the natural effect of a billion dollar company on the imagination and ambitions of labor-leaders. Trust promoters have talked complacently about "inevitable" combinations. Doubtless strikes are just as inevitable. We cannot say that the things which we like are ordained of God, and the things that disturb us are the work of Satan. Perhaps also, the steel incorporators should have reflected more maturely on the certainty that, while they were thinking of the supremacy of America in the manufacture of steel, the labor unions would be thinking only of their own supremacy. But all that is now overpast. We are confronted with a demand which stabs free labor to the heart and holds a dagger to the throat of property.

An insolent union, aiming at a labor monopoly, rises up boldly in the face of capital and says, "It is one or the other of us now." To that there can be but one answer; and the struggle which is to ensue can have but one ending, unless the right of every man to the control of his labor and his property is to be destroyed here and now.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY

Ida Humphrey, a Seven-year-old Child, is Shot and Instantly Killed at Madisonville.

Dan Harris, the Murderer, Succeeded in Making His Escape but was Caught and put in Jail.

Another outrage was perpetrated on the people of Madisonville Saturday evening about dark. Little Ida Humphrey, the seven-year-old daughter of Alonzo Humphrey, while playing on the roadside near her father's house, one mile north of Madisonville, was shot and killed by Dan Harris, a disreputable scoundrel, who with two more companions, was going home in an intoxicated condition from the fair. Harris with his companions, Hattie Madison, and Henry Carneal, were riding along the road and were in fifty yards of where several children were playing when Harris drew his revolver, exclaiming, "Watch me scatter those children," recklessly fired, two shot some of them taking effect in the left side of the little girl who fell to the ground, screaming in agony, and expired in a few minutes. The cries of the dying child must have caused the drunken brute to realize the hideousness of his crime and the horror of the situation, and putting spurs to his horse he hurried away followed by his companions who made no effort whatever to assist the little one whose life blood was fast ebbing away.

The parents and friends of the child hurried to the spot only to find the child a corpse. The authorities were at once notified of the crime and after some difficulty the names of the party were learned. The three men went to their homes and were arrested during the night and brought to Madisonville Sunday morning. Harris was in bed asleep and at first disclaimed all knowledge of the sad affair. Later he admitted that he thought he had shot a dog.

Madison and Carneal disclaim any connection with the affair and vehemently protest they had no pistols and knew nothing of what Harris was doing as he was riding some distance in advance of them. They were released on bail while Harris was locked up to await the result of a preliminary trial.

When news of the tragedy spread over the community public indignation ran high and excitement was at fever heat. A lynching was threatened and feared, but while the feeling was high the law was allowed to take its course. Harris is a young man apparently twenty years old and does not seem to be blessed with any surplus amount of brain power. In fact he seemed entirely indifferent to the magnitude of his crime.

The examining trial was to be held before Judge Hall Monday but the prisoner waived trial and his bond was fixed at $200, was remanded to jail. He but failing to give this he passed through here Monday evening in charge of an officer who was taking him to Hopkinsville for safe keeping.

Thus another crime is added to the long list directly chargeable to the saloons, and another innocent young life is snuffed out without a moment's warning. Truly, the liquor traffic paves the streets of that city with the hearts of her citizens and comments them with their tears.

TRIENNIAL CONCLAVE

Of the Knights Templar to be Held at Louisville August 27-30.

Will be the Biggest Affair in the History of the State—Twenty-Seven Beautiful Sponsors.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 14.—The eyes of the public are centered on this city as the meeting place of the Knights Templar Triennial Conclave, August 27-30. Uniformed sir knights to the number of 25,000 are expected from every section of the Union. The official program has been announced and a week full of pleasure is assured the city's guests. Twenty thousand Templars and 100 bands of music are expected to appear in the parade on Tuesday morning, August 27. The line of march lies through about four miles of the finest streets in the city.

Wednesday will be devoted to the competitive drills. Local jewelers now have on display the prize trophies—five in number, of an aggregate value of $7,600. A number of society belles from various cities of Kentucky have been named as maids of honor for the conclave hall at the Horse Show Building on Thursday night. Ex-scurry rates from all Tennessee, Indiana and Kentucky points will bring Templars and their friends to the city in large numbers. The Grand Commandery of Kentucky Templars will have headquarters in the Custom House, where the State's reputation for hospitality will be well maintained.

Hundreds of visitors to the Conclave will make side trips to points of interest in Kentucky, Tennessee and Indiana during the week of their pilgrimage to Louisville. No former celebration in the history of the South has attracted so many visitors from all sections of the country as will be brought by this event.

One of the prettiest features of Triennial Conclave week in Louisville will be the sponsors representing the several Kentucky commanderies. There are twenty-seven of these young ladies, selected from the most beautiful girls in the respective sections. One will act for the State-at-Large, another for the Grand Commandery, while the following Kentucky towns are represented in the list: Lexington, Versailles, Frankfort, Mt. Sterling, Hopkinsville, Covington, Georgetown, Vanceburg, Paducah, Louisville, Newport, Henderson, Owensboro, Cincinnati, Danville, Richmond, Flemingsburg, Sturgis, Bowling Green, Lebanon, Russellville, Paris, Madisonville, Ashland, Earlinton.

Louisville people have been working three years to arrange a fitting welcome and entertainment of four days for the White Plumed Army of America, which will march on the Falls City, the last week of this month. One hundred thousand dollars will be spent in providing a program for the visitors, who are expected to number at least 150,000—Knights Templar and all.

The Transportation Committee for the Triennial Conclave, to be held in Louisville August 27 to 30, has secured concessions from all the railroads entering the city. A rate of one fare for the round trip will go into effect, and even a lower price than this will probably be given people living within a radius of 200 miles of Louisville.

Several Knight Templar commanderies have included in their itinerary which embraces a pilgrimage to Louisville a number of trips into Kentucky, Tennessee and Indiana. The knights are good spenders—they leave about $1,500,000 behind them during every Triennial—and both the Hoosier and Blue Grass States will profit by the holding of the Conclave in Louisville.

KENTUCKIANS IN UTAH.

Citizens of the Great Salt Lake Welcome Them With Open Arms.

The Salt Lake Herald has the following in its editorial columns:

Citizens of Salt Lake are gently admonished to shake the moth balls out of their chilled steel garments and don them without delay, for the Kentucky editors are coming. An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of lead. The reception committee is going to ask the Kentuckians to check their guns at the hotel office. This is not intended as a discourtesy, but merely in order to relieve the visitors of extra weight. Should any gentleman meet a gentleman who resembles, such a man he does not like, such the police have orders to furnish the necessary shooting iron.

Nothing calculated to add to the gaiety of this joyous occasion will be left out. It is true that the water supply is short, as it usually is at this season of the year, but any man wearing a Kentucky badge who is heard to kick on such an insignificant matter, may be set down as a "finger" of the "ornierist" variety.

There are many other advantages, in addition to the water shortage, that will commend themselves to the visitors. Along our irrigating ditches they will find real mint grown by a beneficent Providence. No Kentuckian is asked to believe that such a wondrously favored land can exist until he sees for himself. Then, unless our judgment is in woeful error, the local Kentucky col. will be notably expanded. Take away your blue grass! A bas every thing except le demjohin! Think of a country where juleps can be plucked on every quarter-section with only a quart pocket as the sine qua non.

But, speaking seriously, The Herald is more than glad to welcome the Kentuckians to Utah. Whether you had from the banks of the classic Helder-sartin, the placid Green or the soil-tinctured Ohio, you are welcome to Zion. To you we open wide our hearts and our several homes and bid you freely enter.

ROBBERS OUT ON TRAIN.

Missouri, Kansas & Texas Train No. 3, South Bound, Held Up at Caney Switch, I. T.

ROBBERS WENT THROUGH COACHES.

The Postal Clerk Compelled to Carry a Stack of Collect Passengers' Valuables—The Express Safe Blown Open and Looted—The Robbers Arrived Within a Few Hours.

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 14.—The south-bound Missouri, Kansas & Texas train No. 3, due here at 6:30 a. m., was robbed at Caney Switch, I. T., at 1:05 o'clock yesterday morning by five masked men. The express car was blown open, the safe wrecked and the mail sacks rifled. All the passengers were robbed of their money.

Caney, the place where the robbery occurred, is a side track 39 miles north of Denison. It is in the Choctaw nation of the Indian territory, and the population surrounding the station is only 125. The train does not stop at Caney except on signal, and the proper signal was given. The engineer whistled his reply, and the train slowed down for the stop.

Instead of the hurried signal to go ahead, the engineer and fireman were confronted by five men with revolvers leveled with black netting. About the same time the express messenger and the mail clerk were communicated with through the closed doors of their car. Three of the robbers shot wildly and then the call went to the messenger and clerk.

"Open up here, open up, and don't be too slow about it!" From within came no response. The two men could not be seen. They awaited only the result. When there was no reply from within the robbers again called out:

"Open the door or we will blow it open and blow you to hell."

There was no response to the second call, and firing again began, and only 20 shots were discharged. Still there was no response to the firing and the three men prepared a small blast of dynamite against the car door. In the meantime the shooting had awakened the passengers. The first information that it was a "hold-up" sent the conductor, brakeman and porter back into the train and as they came in they called out:

"It's a hold-up."

The passengers tried to hide their money and valuables. The dynamite blast was exploded. It was a small charge and was intended more for fright than anything else. A larger blast of dynamite was prepared and exploded. This did the work. It tore the side of the car. The robbers leaped through the opening and the frightened messenger had nothing to do but accept their orders. He was empowered, and narrowly escaped being torn in shreds as was his car. He was ordered to open the safe, but he could not, as the combination was not at the end of the run. The robbers then put a charge of dynamite to the safe, and blew it open. They demolished the safe but got only $150, as the money had been left at Muskogee, to be picked up by the "Katy Flyer," which runs through the territory by day.

The engineer and clerk were forced to assist the bandits in their work. Every mail pouch was emptied and the mail considered valuable by them taken. With Postal Clerk Foley, holding an empty mail sack, the robbers then went through the coaches and robbed every passenger. They got $500 in one coach. A negro who refused to give up his money was severely beaten. The passengers were compelled to throw their valuables into the post pouch.

Superintendent Sam Gaines, of the railway mail service, says he does not believe the robbers got much money out of the mail pouches. The trainmen cut out the wrecked express car and ran down to Caney station and advised officers up and down the road. Within two hours posses of United States marshals, with bloodhounds, were on the trail. The express company says that it lost nothing, and the conductor estimates the passengers' losses at about four hundred dollars, not counting the jewelry. The robbers gave the engineer, Lanham, a diamond ring and a shirt stud. Both safes were demolished by the explosion and the car is a wreck.

QUICK WORK BY MARSHALS.

The Robbers Arrested and Part of the Plunder Recovered.

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 14.—The United States marshals have arrested seven men in Caney bottoms charged with robbery of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas train. One of the men arrested in a Missouri, Kansas & Texas section hand, and the others are young men of the neighborhood. Part of the plunder has been recovered.

THE OUTLOOK FOR COTTON.

Observation Indicates That an Average Crop May be Expected in Half the Cotton States.

St. Louis, Aug. 11.—Dispatches to the Republic from centers of information on crop prospects in Missouri, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Texas, Oklahoma, Indian territory, Louisiana and Alabama show the present outlook for cotton to be generally good.

An average crop may be expected in at least half the cotton-producing states, while in several, notably Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama, the yield will be much better than last year or that of the year before.

In Texas, where interest is centered, owing to the fact that the state produces one-fourth the cotton of the world, the conditions vary widely; in the southeastern part of the state the yield is expected to exceed that of last year by 20 per cent; in southern Texas rains are badly needed, and it is predicted that the crop will be 10 to 20 per cent, short of last year's crop; in the central portion of the state the crop will probably be below the average, owing to damage by drought; in east Texas a crop above the average will be picked while in north Texas the yield will be just about the average.

In Oklahoma and Indian territory conservative estimates of this year's yield place it at near the average. Arkansas cotton fields have suffered from drought, but with good weather from now on the crop will not be far from last year's.

In Tennessee, the cotton on the lowlands is in satisfactory condition, while that on the hills will fall short 20 to 40 per cent, of an average crop. The cotton-raising counties of southern Missouri suffered from drought, yet the yield of cotton, provided the weather is favorable from now on, will not be many thousands of bales less than last year's.

While it is difficult to judge the grade of cotton from what has been shown so far, it is believed by conservative men, throughout the cotton belt, that it will be at least as good as and probably much better than last year's.

MILLIONS FOR MULES.

Enormous Purchases for the British Government in Missouri and Kansas.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 13.—Col. Skinner, of the British army, one of the English officers who are stationed in the United States since the outbreak of the Boer war, is buying horses and mules, returned to Kansas City from New Orleans yesterday. With the shipments just made from Kansas City to Cape Town, South Africa, the government has spent $1,000,000 in Kansas for horses and mules for service in South Africa. Col. Skinner says that approximately 100,000 animals have been shipped from this vicinity through the port of New Orleans during the past three years. The average price paid for these animals is $20 a head, making the total expenditure $5,000,000 in Missouri and Kansas alone.

Fatal Fire in Kansas.

McKeessport, Pa., Aug. 12.—Two persons were probably fatally burned and a dozen more or less severely injured as the result of an explosion on the Hamburg American line steamer Sunday. Robert Criswell and Harry Osborne, both of this place, were so badly scalded and burned all over the body that they will probably die from the effects of their injuries. Among the other passengers scalded are Steve Broskie, W. N. Campbell, James O. Smith, J. E. Hay and Edward Miller, all of McKeessport.

America in Europe.

New York, Aug. 11.—Among the passengers who arrived from Europe on the Hamburg American line steamer Sunday was Henry C. Payne, of Wisconsin. Speaking of the commercial advance of the United States in the world's markets, Mr. Payne said it was impossible for an American in Europe not to be impressed with the strides made by American manufacturers. Especially in Austria, Hungary and Germany, he said, were the people apprehensive of the inroads America was making in their trade.

Wreck Due to Dense Fog.

Engineer James Rolla and Fireman F. B. Wash were badly injured in leaping from their engine. Wash was sent to the hospital. The way car and two freight cars were demolished. The mail train engine was badly disabled and traffic delayed six hours. The cause of the wreck was due to a dense fog which prevailed at the time.

Pole and his family, while attempting to cross a mountain stream about six miles from here, were swept down by the waters of a cloudburst, Sunday afternoon, and his wife and three daughters, aged one to eight years, were drowned. ## A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES"

What is known as the "Blues" is seldom occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disordered LIVER.

THIS IS A FACT which may be demonstrated by trying a course of

Tutt's Pills

They control and regulate the LIVER. They bring hope and buoyancy to the mind. They bring health and elasticity to the body.

A number of colored children have been annoying other children upon the streets of the town. In several cases children have been hurt. The parents are responsible, and will be punished if the practice continues.

Citizens seem to forget that an ordinance exists, which forbids the running at large upon the streets and alleys of the town of horses and mules. Great complaint is made and the ordinance will be enforced to the letter.

Disturbance of public worship is again complained of, this time at the home of the M. E. Church. Warrants were issued some time since in a case of this kind at the General Baptist church. Young men will take notice they must cease this law breaking or severe punishment will be meted out.

Miss Hattie Gambin and sister were returning from the fair Saturday evening in a buggy. The horse became frightened near the road house and Miss Hattie jumped from the buggy. Her head caught and she fell on her head and shoulder, bruising herself considerably but not seriously. Miss Gambin is a niece of Mr. Dan Unstead.

There has been no rain in Todd county since the latter part of May and the corn, tobacco and other crops will not yield over half as much as usual. Corn is now worth three dollars a barrel and prospects are good for it to reach $5.75. Those farmers who had a good supply of hay will be in it this winter.

A Woman's Missionary Society was formed last Monday evening by Miss Olivia E. Orr, of Morganfield, with fifteen members. The society will meet the first Sunday in each month at 3 o'clock p. m.

There are some people who expect a weekly newspaper to take on all the features of one of our great dailies, and actually compare the two papers. They do not take into consideration the vast amount of talent the dailies have—the city editor, the telegraph editor, the sporting editor and an array of reporters, while the weekly has one man to collect all the news and cover all the different fields. Comparisons are odious and should not be made, and if one does their best angels can do no more.

Motion for New Trial Overruled.

Circuit Court convened in Madisonville Monday morning in special term with Judge Nunn on the bench. The special term was called for the purpose of passing on a motion for a new trial in the case of Deputy Sheriff Lindle and possemen McIntosh and Johnson. The Court overruled the motion for a new trial and entered judgment against each of the defendants in accordance with the verdict of the jury and sentenced them to two years each at hard labor in the branch penitentiary at Eddyville. Council for the defense at once prayed for an appeal. Judge Nunn granted a stay of sixty days pending action of the court of appeals. If these men go to the penitentiary for discharging their sworn duty it will be a travesty on the boasted justice of the courts of Hopkins county and this section of the state.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by rebuilding up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. "I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible flux, that they had been clanking off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief. But he took no more and was entirely cured." For sale by St. Bernard Drug Store, Earlinton, Geo. King, St. Charles; Ben T. Robinson, Morgans Gap.

The Making of Good Coffee

Begins in the growing. Anywhere between the plantation and the coffee pot the flavor may be changed, the quality spoiled by carelessness, inexperience, or unscrupulous methods. From the time Arbuckle's Coffee leaves the hands of the grower until it reaches the user in a sealed packet, it is handled with the same watchful care, the same thought for cleanliness, that you would give any article of food that goes on your table. That's the reason it costs the grocer a cent a pound more than its cheap imitations. The extra cent you pay for buys much more than a cent's worth of quality and strength. A pound of Arbuckle's Coffee will give you more cups of better coffee than you would get from other package coffees.

Be sure you get Arbuckle's Roasted Coffee. Other package coffees are but imitations of Arbuckle's.

In each pound package of Arbuckle's Roasted Coffee there is a list of articles. With each package in which the list is found the grower has bought a dollar in part of some article to be selected by him or her from the list subject only to the condition that the selected article is to be sent and returned to our Nation Dept. You should see this list. Address all communications to

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Bilelessness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendix, Ectitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clear the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac. St. Bernard Drug Store.

THE PEARL HUNTERS.

... A TRIP TO RED RIVER ...
BY "TIMMIE."

Last Friday a party of fifteen left the little town of Guthrie, Ky., for Red River on a fishing and pearl hunting expedition.

On the way down we stopped at a house for some water and asked the lady who showed us the spring if the reports in regard to the phenomenal find of pearls on Horse Shoe Bend were true. She showed her sun bonnet back an inch or so and said: "I low they air; and pass here 'tother day ridin' of a hump-backed mawl an' showed me a quinine bottle 'bout half full of 'em pearls; said he found 'em all in two days." We thanked her for the water and mentally resolved if there was a pearl in Red River we would find it.

After a long, hot, dusty drive we came to the Horse Shoe Bend and pitched our tent in Whooper Hollow one mile from the old town of Port Royal. The site selected for a camping place was one of nature's best efforts; on one side the jetting rocks rose layer on layer until they were over two hundred feet high and as perpendicular as the walls of a building; to our left the river rippled over the rocks and shoals and sparkled in the sunlight. The giant monarchs of the forest spread their huge limbs and protected us from the fierce heat of the burning sun. By the time we had put our tents up and gotten wood to cook with and killed a wild hen and milked a wild cow and put out a trot line it was dark and the lady who was preparing the frugal meal all of a sudden discovered she must have a bucket of water. Under ordinary circumstances it is an easy matter to procure a little water, but when one takes into consideration that we were fifty yards from the river and the bank was almost perpendicular and you could not see two feet from you and tall weeds, muskrat holes and snakes were between you and the water, one naturally hesitates before offering their services. But the demand for the water was urgent and in order to make the ladies of the party think I was indignant I took the bucket and started. On reaching the edge of the river I sat down and began to slide gently down the bank. Every inch I went my speed increased; I dropped the bucket and grasped the weeds as I passed; they broke off and I went on with ever increasing momentum. I heard the bucket rolling and tumbling on the rocks and finally splash in the water below. I still kept going and by the time the earth's surface was getting warm I finally came to a sudden halt and found myself sitting straddle of a beech tree while all the stars in the heavens seemed to be circulating round my head. This tree was all that saved me from a plunge in the river. I made my way painfully up the bank feeling that my head was considerably swollen and that I had bucked up against one of the St. Bernard coke ovens. Another of the party who had experience in prowling around at night went after the water.

We finally succeeded in getting supper over and all turned in about 10 o'clock to get a good night's rest and be ready for the morning. Everything was quiet save the occasional bark of a fox on the bluff or the hoot of an owl in the dark woods to our left. The flickering light of another camping party could be seen around the bend of the river. I was thinking how pleasant camp life was and regretting that our stay would be so short, when a large bug with sharp feet ran up one of my alabaster limbs about a yard and proceeded to locate a claim. I removed it by force and attempted to throw it out of the tent but it struck against the side and fell in the mouth of one of the party who snored and consequently had her mouth open. The lady slightly rose to a sitting posture and began clawing in her mouth and spitting. After dislodging his bugship she indignantly demanded a sheet and proceeded therewith to wrap up her head. After this things began to quiet down once more and we had at last gotten asleep when a mournful dirge broke on our astonished ears and we beheld by the dim starlight a procession of white clad figures file slowly by our tent singing "Barbara Allen." They kept this up until 2 o'clock singing old-time songs that we had forgotten and making night hideous with a peculiar kind of whoop from which this hollow took its name; the rock bluff would catch up the sound and send it back to the river and sleep was utterly impossible.

The next morning some of the children wanted to know what kind of a wild animal they were frightened by last night. After breakfast all went down the river two miles to the muske shoal and hunted muscle shells in the clear water. We found some handsome shells by noon and only found two pearls in them all. One pearl was near the size of a bird shot and the other quite small. As pearl hunters we are not a howling success and the next time we go to Red River it will be simply as fishermen.

D'ANNUNZIO COMING.

Italy's Greatest Writer Soon to Appear in America.

Gabriele D'Annunzio, the leading poet, dramatist and novelist of Italy, is soon, according to recent announcement, to visit America. He will come as the companion of Eleanora Duse, Italy's leading actress, who is one of the greatest of the world's players. Duse is to act the leading roles in D'Annunzio's plays, and the latter is to expound between the acts the philosophy of the conception. They are to appear in a few of the largest cities of the United States.

Although only 37 years of age, D'Annunzio has already made for himself a name in the world's literature. He is united in Italy and elsewhere as a poet fitted to rank with the celebrated "four poets of Italy"—Dante, Petrarch, Ariosto and Tasso. As a dramatist the peninsula has not seen his equal since Alfieri, and as a novelist D'Annunzio ranks far in advance of any of his Italian contemporaries. With all the praise that must be accorded to the charm of his style, however, his subject matter is repulsive to most Anglo-Saxons. He is, it is true, "the apostle of beauty" as the Romans name him. But to most critics outside of Italy it seems that his poems and novels dwell too much on the delights of sense and passion to be morally clean.

D'Annunzio has other interests besides his literary work. He is a member of the Italian chamber of deputies and a leader in the thought of the kingdom. Although naturally a student, he is also a man of the world and takes a keen interest in contemporary affairs. In appearance he is "short and fadful and has a disagreeable smile that never leaves his lips." It is said that in the novels and plays and poems of D'Annunzio the chief male character is D'Annunzio himself, of course under different names.

It seems surprising that D'Annunzio and Duse should appear together, considering the stories concerning the two that were recently in circulation. He is said to have accepted the love of the great actress and then, tiring of her, to have laid bare their attachment in his novel "Il Fuoco" ("The Flame of Life").

A Ministers Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my supply and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes. He did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." For sale by St. Bernard Drug Store, Earlington, Geo. King, St. Charles; Ben T. Robinson, Mortons Gap.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON VII, THIRD QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, AUG. 18.

Text of the Lesson, Gen. xviii, 10-35. Memory Verses, 25-28. Study Questions, Jan. v, 16-Commentary Prepared by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1901, by American Press Association.]

10-19. "And the Lord said, Shall I hide from Abraham that which I do?" We must suppose that the lesson committee did the best they knew how in selecting the portions which they have assigned to us for study, but how they could be led to omit such a portion as chapter xviii is something of a mystery. We trust that all teachers will think it worth while to look at the portions passed over. Last week's lesson showed us Abraham made sure, as we supposed, by the Lord's message that all would be as God had said, yet in chapter xviii we read that he turned from God to listen to an earthly suggestion which brought much trouble into his household and led to an interval of 13 years in his life of which he knows nothing. Compare xviii, 1-19, with xxi, 1-12. In chapter xxi the Lord appears to him under a new name, the Almighty God (Eli-Shaddai), the Mighty God who is all sufficient, confirming and stating more fully what he said and giving him in token which signified death to the flesh (Col. ii, 11); giving him also a new name, the Father of the principal letter of His own name Jeho-ah (Jehv) in the midst of his old name Abraham. We cannot but be struck by the cleanness of God till we are willing to have with self and walk before Him. Sam's name is also changed and Abraham is assured that the time has come and within a year Sarah shall bear to him the promised son. The waiting of the Lord and the two other heavenly ones to Abraham in the heat of the day, their acceptance of Abraham's hospitality, the message to Abraham confirmed to Sarah lead us to the beginning of today's lesson. Let the Lord's question which we read in verse 14, first clause, along with Jer. xxxii, 17, and John xiv, 13, lead us to expect great things from the Lord.

20, 21. The Lord is a righteous judge and speaks of Himself here as carefully inquiring into matters. He shall and judge after the sight of His eyes neither reprieve after the hearing nor deal with the righteous (Ezek. ix, 4). Everything on earth cries to Him, and He hears. He is not careless, He is not negligent. He is not slow to see to it. Nor carelessly Gen. iv, 10; Ex. xii, 7; Hab. ii, 11; Ps. v, 4; also creation's groans in Rom. viii, 22. God hears it all.

22. "Abraham stood yet before the Lord." The other portions of the lesson and his visit to Lot and his rescue by them are recorded in the next chapter, reference to which we find from the Lord Himself in Luke xvi, 28-32. Abraham standing before God makes me think of Elijah in 1 Kings xix, 10; and of Gabriel in 1 Kings xix, 14; Luke i, 10. To appropriate and live in the power of Ps. xvi, 8, is a very proper and helpful thing to do, remembering that the Lord seeketh not sin north, for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh upon the heart (1 Sam. xvi, 7). He says, "Lo, I am with you always."

23-25. "Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?" In the rest of our lesson we see Abraham as the intercessor, as we afterward see Moses, Samuel, Daniel and others, all crying to Him who ever lives to make intercession for us (Rom. viii, 34; Heb. vii, 25). We read that Abraham drew near, and it is our privilege to draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, and to come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy and find grace to help in time of need (Heb. x, 22; iv, 16). We may come not only for ourselves, but for others. We may forget ourselves and live chiefly for others, and the more we recognize self and live for the others, the more we shall be like Him who never pleased Himself nor sought His own will nor His own glory (Rom. x, 3; John vi, 38; 1 Cor. x, 31). By His precious blood He has made us high who once were far off and has given us access to God at all times (Eph. ii, 13; Rom. v, 2), with such blessed assurances for our encouragement as John xiv, 13, 14; xv, 7, 16; Mark xi, 24; 1 John v, 14, 15.

27-32. Fearing that there may not be 50 righteous in Sodom, Abraham continues to plead that the Lord will spare the city for the sake of 40, 30, 20, 10, and the Lord said that He would spare the city if ten righteous people were found in it. Six times Abraham pleads. Some wonder how it might have been if he had still kept on, but it would appear that Lot was the only righteous man in the city, and we would not have known that he was righteous but for II Pet. ii, 7, 8. It would seem that his wife and two daughters were delivered for his sake and that he was delivered for Abraham's sake (chapter xii, 12-20). That the righteous by their intercession can bring blessing to others is evident from the record of the restriction, the women of Tyre and Sidon, the four friends (Math. ix, 10; ix, 2; xv, 25). That there may be such a state of affairs that even the prayers of the righteous cannot avail we learn from Jer. xv, 1; Ezek. xiv, 23, where we see that such men as Moses, Samuel, Noah, Daniel or Job could not bring deliverance. Abraham did not stand on the ground of any goodness in himself, for he spoke of himself as but dust and ashes (verse 27), but only on the ground of the great goodness and the righteousness of God. We may learn a good lesson in pleading from Jeremiah, who said, "O Lord, though our iniquities testify against us, do Thou it for Thy name's sake" (Jer. xiv, 7). In Jesus' name is our great strength.

33. "And the Lord went His way as soon as He had left communing with Abraham, and Abraham returned unto his place." How near heaven is brought to earth in these interviews of God with Abraham and others! And it is the privilege of every believer to walk with God in constant communion (Gen. v, 24; v, 6; Mic. vi, 8). It is to be feared that the majority of the righteous are like Lot in Sodom, so mixed up with the ungodly that they bear no testimony for God, while but few are like Abraham at Hebron, living above the world in fellowship with God, for this is a narrow way, and few there that find it. Let every child of God remember that He has redeemed us to be a people for His own possession, set apart for Himself, not conformed to this world (Titus ii, 14; R. V.; 1 Pet. x, 3; Rom. xii, 1, 2), and let us trust Him to make us willing (Eph. ex, 5) to be all that He desires us to be, trying to longer make this world our own ourselves, but unto Him alone.

"You."

If I might have whatever I wished for most,
And take my choice of precious treasures too,
Or choose from earth whatsoever I would,
I would ask for you.

I'd envy neither prince nor king,
Nor wish a kingdom old or new,
I'd hold Abr'ie's diamond mine less rich than I,
If I had you.

You are the brightest star of all the group,
Your eyes glisten like starlight on—the dew,
No other treasure would I ask or crave,
If I had you.

There is more joy to my fond heart,
In the lightest thing you think or do,
Than all the pleasure earth could impart,
Because it's you.

Pearl Hunters.

The Clarksville Leaf-Chronicle's Port Royal, Tenn., correspondent said yesterday: "Pearl hunters are here from quite a distance. Some valuable pearls have been found in Red river right in sight of town. There is a pearl hunting party here now from Smithville, Tenn. They buy as well as hunt pearls. They have purchased some valuable ones on this trip—all found in Red river and its tributaries."

Red river is lower than it has been in a great many years and much of the bed of the stream is exposed. Hundreds of valuable pearls have been found in the shells in the stream—one of them a few days ago bringing $200. Farm hands along the river have quit work and are busily engaged in the search for pearls. Some of them are as wild about the matter as were the gold hunters who went to California in 49.

Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sick-ness of the stomach," says O. P. M. Holiday of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoon-ful of water and he got better at once." ## CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 18.—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Ton—God's requirements.—Deut. x, 13. On Mount Sinai, after the 40 days of Israel in worshipping the golden calf, Moses interceded for the people before God. The Lord heard and granted his prayer. "I stood in the midst of 40 days and 40 nights, and the Lord hearkened unto me at that time also, and the Lord would not destroy you. And the Lord said unto me, Arise, say thou to the people before the people that they may go in and possess the land which I swore unto their fathers to give unto them. But this was not all. God's mercy was great. The people had sinned greatly, yet God the Lord had not destroyed them and consequently had a right to require something of them in return. They had forfeited their lives, but God had not demanded the forfeit, but he did require that those forfeited lives should be used for him. Hence Moses goes on to say, "And now, Israel, what doth the Lord require of thee? We stand in the same case as to God as these ancient Jews. God has spared our lives, forfeited by sin. What does He require of us in return? It is a very important question."

Moses emphasized three requirements of God—fear, love, obedience. "What doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all His ways and to love Him and to serve the Lord thy God with all the heart and with all thy soul?" These things God also requires of us, who have been saved and redeemed by the death of His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ (1 Cor. x, 31). This fear, however, is not a slavish fear or dread. "There is a fear which hath torment and which love casts out as its antagonist, but the fear of God, which he requires, is that pious reverence for Him which cannot only coexist with love to Him, but is not without love. This fear is to be accompanied by love. It is to be 'fear with love. Love without fear relaxes; fear without love is cold and leads to despair.' God requires our supreme love—the love of heart, soul, mind and strength. If we love father, mother, brother or sister more than Him, we are not worthy of Him. God should have the supreme place in our affections as well as in our lives. God requires us to serve Him, to obey Him. We are to 'walk in His ways,' to 'serve the Lord with all the heart and all the soul, to keep the commandments of the Lord and His statutes.' Obedience is the test of reverence and love. If we reverence and love God, we will obey Him. His requirements are not light. He requires all—the reverence of our minds, the affection of our hearts, the service of our lives; he requires great. His requirements are just. He is worthy all He asks, and we and all that we are and have are His by creation, by preservation and by redemption. Let us therefore cheerfully and willingly fear Him, love Him and serve Him.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Arrange a special program covering our duties to God, as individuals, in the house, the society, the church and the state.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xxi, 1-17; Lev. xxi, 15; Deut. vi, 1-5; Prov. i, 7; Mic. vi, 8; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Math. vii, 12; xxvi, 36-39; Mark iii, 33-35; Phil. iv, 8, 9.

Pervasive in Helping Others.

How seldom the believer realizes the sublime steadfastness of God! What a blessed moment is that in which revelation of it is made for the first time! In the light of this wonderful promise, "I will not turn away from you to do them good," let us consider our own pitiable vacillations. The good we do to people depends almost on our fluctuating feelings. It is only in our overflowing moods that we scatter benefits. We inaugurate schemes to bless our fellow men, and grow weary of rebuff ere anything is accomplished. We approach unfortunates in the spirit of love, sickened at the ingratitude of the response and "run away." We soon grow discouraged in trying to benefit the frivolous, the selfish, the seemingly ungrateful.

Attempting to do good, we do not strive patiently through months and years toward success. We supplicate the Throne for the salvation of a sinner once, not continually. We say we would do people good if they would let us; we do not enter into that divine love for humanity which is so great that its only expression is in ceaseless ministry. Compare all this with the unchanging, unshakable steadfastness of God's compassion for His creatures. "I will not turn away from them to do them good."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Bearing the Cross.

God gives everybody, I think, a cross when he enters upon a Christian life. When it comes to you, what is it? It is the rule, say, four square, full of splinters and silvers and rudely tacked together. I see some men carrying their cross as just as men as it was at the first. Others, I perceive, begin to wind about it faith and hope and patience. And at last their cross has been so covered with holy affections that it does not seem any more to be a cross. They carry it so easily and are so much more strengthened than they were at first. I mean almost forget that it is a cross by the triumph with which they carry it. Carry your cross in such a way that there shall be victory in it.—Henry Ward Beecher.

The Will of God.

In the spirit of a little child can we best learn and understand and do the will of God. In any other we lose some of the purity of heart through which alone we can see Him and at the same time something, whatever we may think to the contrary, of our hold upon our fellow men.—W. M. Almsworth.
